Risks Associated

Though the Government has spurred its Planned Expenditure in the Infrastructure segment, Implementation still remains a big stumbling block for many a companies. In fact, the critical segments of infrastructure including roads, railways and ports, have under-achieved their planned investment targets by 22%. The story of poor execution and delivery only got worse in 2012-13. The status report of major central-sector projects costing Rs 150 crore and above shows that out of the 566 projects, five were ahead of schedule, 226 on schedule, and 258 (45%) had been delayed with respect to their latest scheduled date of completion. Issues like delays in land acquisition, municipal permission, supply of materials, award of work and operational failures continued to drag down implementation of these projects. This is bundled with a severe problem of liquidity in both the Government share and the Private investment. These funding pressures have created a major cash crunch across the entire infrastructure development supply chain. Apart from the problem of liquidity, the sector is facing a major problem of lack of decision making. In light of the revelation of several scams in the last few years, there is an environment of mistrust within government agencies and the agencies have responded by freezing decision making to avoid taking any responsibility. Since much of the infrastructure space relies on the government or its agencies as direct developers or regulators, such inertia in decision making impacts implementation across projects.

In a Nutshell

With nearly a century's heritage in construction, HCC has evolved into an engineering and construction leader. It has established a vast presence and gained recognition in the sectors of Hydro Power, Water Solutions, Transportation and Nuclear Power. In Hydro Power HCC's accomplishments in this geologically complex area of work include several first-of-its-kind dams, barrages, tunnels, underground power stations and surface power stations, along with water conductor systems like surge shafts, pressure shafts and penstocks. Its Water solutions include specialized systems to offer total solutions for high value projects, such as urban water supply systems, pumping stations, water treatment plants and lift irrigation for the rural sector. HCC has also executed a number of challenging projects including the world's longest barrage. It has built over 50% of India's nuclear power generation capacity. HCC specializes in pre-stressed containment structures for reactor buildings and has executed India's largest nuclear power plant in Kudankulam (2X1000 MW) comprising the country's first Pressurized Light Water Reactors. With its technical knowledge and project management experience the company guarantees the successful execution of futuristic and technologically advanced construction. The positives for HCC currently are India's long term focus on infrastructure and the nod for the Lavasa IPO in which HCC holds a sizeable stake, the IPO would especially bring out the inherent value of this mammoth investment. Both of which would be beneficial to the Company.
